

Blog active

Last Updated Wednesday, 09 January 2008

I added a blog to the site today. Two, actually...Music Stuff, which currently features some links to stuff other people have written about the music biz, and which I think you should read, musician or not. I will add interesting stuff as I come across it, and might even write something myself one day.

The other one is Technology Stuff, and currently offers a brief, biased guide to making your very own website.

See the 'Blog' menu above?