Canada's national broadcaster, CBC Radio 2, has a program called Canada Live, and they have a whole bunch of live concerts available on demand on the interwebs for your listening pleasure, including an Autorickshaw concert here

About Canada Live:

CBC Radio 2 crews are out every night of the week recording live concerts from all across Canada. These performances are broadcast on Canada Live and other CBC Radio 2 programs.

The best of these concerts are presented here at Concerts on Demand for you to listen to when ever you want. New concerts are added regularly creating an ever-growing archive of the best performances of classical, jazz, world, singer-songwriter and contemporary music from St. John's to Victoria to Iqaluit.

7 nights a week from 8 to 10, CBC Radio 2 listeners will be transported to concert halls, music clubs and festival stages across the country for live performances from the best Canadian artists. The show will be on the move, coming from a different major Canadian music center each night. Canada Live will feature a broad range of music: from singer songwriter, to blues, to jazz, to world, classical music and everything in between.
